EFFORTS TO INJURE CANDIDATE VAN WIE ARE UNAVAILING

Mother of False Alarms Has Another One

West-End Candidate Van Wie Keeps the Opposition in Hot Water. More Arguments Go A-Glimmering.

The San Bernardino Index is continuing its weak effort toward discrediting the West-End candidate for Supervisor, C. D. Van Wie, in the eyes of the people, but people of this section have known Van Wie so long that they take absolutely no stock in the half truths being circulated by the County's mother of false alarms.

The latest effort on the part of the Index is almost laughable, as it displays in black head lines how Van Wie was grilled by a Grand Jury in 1911, when the fact of the matter was that Van Wie had just taken the office of auditor, found the system therein to be decidedly bad, and reported thus to the Supervisors and asked to be allowed more room for his office work, and also to install a complete modern system as the County had outgrown the system which had been in use for many years. No action was taken by the Board of Supervisors at that time but the Grand Jury took up Auditor Van Wie's suggestion and in the report given, the system used in the Auditor's office and the lack of room given it, was severely criticized and there followed an immediate change.

Of course the Index doesn't give the facts of the case but states that the Grand Jury criticized Van Wie. As Mr. Van Wie has been very busy in his office and thinking that perhaps some of his friends would be misguided by the attacks of the Index he requested The News to give what the Grand Jury of 1911 had to say regarding himself, and also what the 1913-1914 Grand Jury had to say regarding his office.

In the Superior Court of the County of San Bernardino, State of California.

In the matter of the Grand Jury for the year 1911-12.

GRAND JURY REPORT

In Justice to Mr. C. D. Van Wie, the present County Auditor, we would report that the conditions in the Auditor's office as hereinbefore outlined are due largely to the system and conditions in vogue at the time he took office in January, 1911. We believe Mr. Van Wie to be a man and he has aided this Grand Jury in its investigations in every way possible.

In the Superior Court of the State of California, in and for the County of San Bernardino.

In the matter of the Grand Jury for the year 1912-13.

GRAND JURY'S FINAL REPORT

Not only does this system seem to be so provided with automatic checks and balances as to make an error next to impossible and if possible, compel its immediate discovery, but in order to get a proper balance for original entries, the books of the Auditor's and Treasurer's office have been checked back and errors corrected occurring long since as 1893, covering a period of twenty years. The result of this investigation is to bring the books of the two offices with $283.92 of an exact balance, instead of a difference of many thousands of dollars. In view of much that has been said, more or less publicly, with references to the accounts of these two most important revenue offices, and also in view of the Court's injunction to this jury to "report as to the facts found," the Grand Jury considers it proper to emphasize these two facts, namely: That as the result of an investigation covering twenty years in these revenue offices, the books have been brought closely into balance, the discrepancy doubtless attesting that remote date; and, second, that a system of accounting has been installed which is the best that experts can devise, and that make future discrepancies practically impossible, if ordinary diligence is used in these offices.

The Grand Jury for the year 1913-14 respectfully reports as follows:

TUESDAY, AUGUST 25 PRIMARY ELECTION BE SURE YOU VOTE

Change Made in Location Of Voting Places

Location of Voting Places in Two of Upland's Precincts. Voters Are Requested to Note the Change.

Next Tuesday is the date of the primary election and on that day there promises to be something doing throughout the city. Meetings held during the week assure much hard work for that day, as many automobiles will be kept busy getting the voters to the polls.

Although in the official proclamation the polling places were fixed at the former real estate office of Sholl and Monroe, the city hall, Monroe's Garage on Tenth Street and the Kirk barn on Fifteenth Street a change has been made whereby the polling places will be located at the City Marshal's office instead of at Sholl and Monroe's real estate office for Precinct No. 1. Those voting in No. 2 will vote at the Upland Grammar School instead of in the garage of J. F. Monroe on Tenth Street. The other two remain as above.

The polling places and the Boards of Election are as follows:

Upland No. 1 Voting Precinct
Judges—Frederick C. Froehde, Frank D. Samuels.
Inspectors—Charles M. Sikes, Nelson I. Hamer.

Clerks—Roscoe C. Hinkle, Irwin Lewis.
Polling place at office of City Marshal.

Upland No. 2 Voting Precinct
Judges—Paul Schowalter, Thomas Nesbit.

Inspectors—George P. Smith, Henry B. Tucker.
Clerks—Harold C. Moore, Albert H. Skinner.

Polling place at Upland Grammar School, Tenth Street.

Upland No. 3 Voting Precinct
Judges—George E. Bender, William Osborn.

Inspectors—Mrs. Annie May Leahy, Mrs. Julia M. Lyon.
Clerks—Roswell R. Brownson, Miss Aurelia S. Harwood.

Polling place at residence of Thomas Kirk, Euclid Avenue, in barn.

Upland No. 4 Voting Precinct
Judges—John W. Mehl, Charles F. Ries.

Inspectors—Loring N. Kirk, Harry H. Plum.
Clerks—William B. Stewart, William E. Robbins.

Polling place at City Hall, Upland.

San Antonio Voting Precinct
Judges—Robert Van Ness, William C. Lydick.

Inspectors—William Springer, Harry M. Tonner.
Clerks—Don Lowry, Miss Isabelle Feldkamp.

Polling place at Mrs. Norwood's store.

As the experience of voting may be somewhat new to Upland voters The News publishes the following on how to cast your ballot, which was written by Louis W. Myers, Judge of the Superior Court:

Our primary election laws have been changed so frequently and so radically in this State that much confusion exists among the voters as to their provisions. I have been asked to furnish in simple language answers to some of the questions most frequently asked by the voters in this connection.

The following rules, by reason of their brevity of statement, are not absolutely accurate in all respects, but are sufficiently so, I think, for practical purposes.

Who Are Entitled to Vote

All citizens of the United States over the age of twenty-one, who have resided in this State one year, in the County ninety days, and in the precinct thirty days, next before the date of election, who have duly registered since January 1, 1914, and who have not moved outside of the precinct since registering. (Naturalized citizens must have been admitted ninety days prior to election.)

Non-Partisan Voters May Vote at Primary

Under all former primary laws, there was no provision for a non-partisan ballot, and the result was that all voters who had declined or failed to state their party affiliation

FINE PROGRAM FOR TONIGHT'S CONCERT

Tonight's Band Concert to Be One of the Best of Summer Series. Four Requests.

At tonight's band concert Director Wilding will accede to four requests from admirers of the band who have requested that certain numbers given during the season be repeated. This goes to prove that the band has many friends who appreciate the efforts of Director Wilding in giving first class music.

The program as a whole is bound to please the large audience and indications are that another very large crowd will greet the musicians.

1. March—The Union Forever.
2. Waltz—"Peppy Chating"—Araullo (By Request).
3. (a) Morceau—"Meditation"—Morrison (By Request).
(b) Trombone Blow Out—"Slippery Hank"—Losey
4. Grand Selection Scotch Aairs.—Beyer

INTERMISSION

6. Mohammedan Serenade—"Imam"—Mann
7. Humoresque—Chinese Wedding Procession.—Hosme (By Request).
8. Rag—Tinkle the Ivories.—Herger
9. March—March of the Marines.—Brooke

IN THE SHADOW

A Tribute

Mrs. Ida Louisa Mahoney was born in Ohio, October 6th, 1860. Her maiden name was Palmer. She was twice married. In 1879 at Rockford, Illinois, she was united in marriage to David H. Jones. Four children were born to them, three of whom died early, one Walter H. Jones, of this community, survives his mother. In 1897 a Beloit, Wis. she was married to Edward Mahoney, who survives her.

For more than a year Mrs. Mahoney was a sufferer, but was patient through all the weary days and months of pain. She deeply appreciated every act of kindness and every deed of love performed in her behalf. One day, speaking to the writer, of a little neighbor girl, who brought such beautiful flowers, she said, "It means so much to a sick person, just to be remembered." She often mentioned the loved ones who gave to her such constant care in the home. It was an unspeakable joy to her that her sister, Mrs. Ira P. Russell, could be in the home during the closing days of life. Mrs. Mahoney's faith was anchored in the gospel of Christ. In early life she united with the Methodist Episcopal Church and at the time of her death her membership was with the church at Albion, Iowa. Hers was an unusually transparent character. The light that never fell on land or sea was reflected in her countenance, and the gospel of good cheer has lived in her home as well as in the community. To know her was to love and respect her. In her demise the husband has lost a loving wife, the son a tender forgiving mother, and the sister an affectionate companion of many years.

The end came quietly August 17, 1914, at 1 o'clock p. m. The funeral was held Wednesday at 2 p. m. from Connors' undertaking parlors in Upland. Rev. S. S. Sampson, of the Methodist Church, officiating. Mrs. Florence Dundas and Mrs. Ruth Flagg sang two of the beautiful songs of the gospel.

The weary sufferer is now at rest. The day dawns slowly in the western sky.

The sunset splendor fades, and wan and cold
The far peaks wait the sunrise; cheerily

The Shepherd calls his wanderers to their fold.

My weary soul, that fain would cease to roam,
Take comfort; evening bringeth all things home.

Homeward the swift winged seagull takes its flight;

The ebbing tide breaks softly on the sand;

The sunlit boats draw shoreward for the night;

The shadows deepen over sea and land;

Be still, my soul, thine hour shall also come.

Behold, one evening God shall lead thee home.

SEWER PETITIONERS APPEAR BEFORE CITY COUNCIL

Pacific Electric Officials Confer with Council

Petitioners Desire Initial Sewer Work Started Immediately. Speed Ordinance on Electric Cars Held up.

Local citizens interested in seeing that Upland has a sewer installed as soon as possible appeared before the Council last night and presented a petition to the Council urging that body to take immediate steps and by way of encouragement citizens had signed to the extent of $175 toward employing Engineer James A. Sourwine to do the initial work. The petition reads:

Whereas, we believe a sanitary sewer system is an immediate need of the business district and a certain portion of the residence district, in the city of Upland,

And whereas, an engineer's report, including estimates of cost of the work, and showing the amount necessary to be expended, to put in a satisfactory and sanitary sewer system, is the first requisite for immediate start of said work,

And whereas, an engineer having local property interest has agreed to do said work for a very low sum, in order to get the sewer work started,

Be it resolved, that it is the sense of the undersigned that said engineer be immediately engaged to do this necessary work as per offer hereto attached, and further we hereby agree to pay toward the expense of said engineer's service the sum set opposite our respective names;

And be it further resolved, that a copy of the above be filed with the Honorable City Council of this city, with a request for immediate action.

Mr. Sourwine's agreement follows:

August 11, 1914.

Being desirous, in common with other property owners, that sewers shall be constructed without delay, in the downtown and more thickly populated district—and as a means of expediting said work, in the city of Upland,

I hereby agree to do all preliminary engineering work, and to prepare a preliminary report, showing estimates of costs of the required construction, for the several districts which might be considered, together with a rough detail of the work to be done.

For the sum of one hundred and seventy-five ($175.00) dollars, as full payment thereof.

Signed, J. A. SOURWINE.

Considerable discussion followed the reading of the petition. D. E. Dobbins, A. P. Harwood and Jas. A. Sourwine speaking in behalf of the petitioners while Councilmen had many questions to ask. It was finally decided to take up the matter with the Chamber of Commerce and the matter was referred to that body.

Ordinance Not Necessary

General Superintendent of the Pacific Electric F. L. Annable was before the City Council last night relative to a proposed speed ordinance which the Council had been considering which regulated the speed of trains through the city to 15 miles per hour. Mr. Annable stated that he didn't like to see that ordinance passed, as already they had ordered their motormen to drive not more than 15 miles an hour from Euclid Avenue to Eleventh Avenue within the city of Upland and he believed they were doing it, and if any one in the city saw any of their men driving faster than that rate of speed he wanted to know it and assured the City Council that he personally would see to it that the fast driving stopped. Mr. Annable explained that it was the plan of the Pacific Electric to co-operate with the Councils of each city through which their lines passed, and not to be antagonistic to their wishes. The passing of the ordinance was held up by a unanimous vote.

Other Items of Interest

The Santa Fe railroad has made application to cross streets in the city limits, as the spur line just east of town has not proved to be advantageously located.

The first reading of the ordinance calling the proposed bond election was given last night and the ordinance will appear in next week's issue of The News as a special meeting is called for next Wednesday.

MRS. HARRINGTON IN THE WAR ZONE

J. F. Sawyer Receives Interesting Letter From Mrs. Harrington Who Is in Europe.

J. F. Sawyer has just received from his aunt, Mrs. R. R. Harrington, a letter which will prove of great interest to many here, as she is known by many local people, and her letter gives her experience in the war zone of England.

August 4, 1914, London, England—So much has happened that I hardly know how to commence to tell you. I am only writing this one letter to you all, as I am charged 25 cents for this stamp. We went to Belgium before we ever knew war was even thought of. The whole city (Brussels) was a shouting, howling mob, and we knew we were not safe. We stayed there two nights and were ordered out. We had paid in full for our tickets way up to Sweden, so at once started on and were forced to leave our train at The Hague, Holland, for the soldiers wanted it. At The Hague we found things even worse. We couldn't get through the street, and 100,000 soldiers left the city that night for the border for mobilization. We had no money, just our travelers' checks which we were told would take us any place in the world. I had to walk through the awful surging crowd to our American embassy. Mr. Henry Van Dyke, and he told me to leave at once for England, but no trains could be taken, they being used for soldiers. We sat up all night planning what to do. Not a cent of real money; our hotel would not take our bankers' checks. I walked up and down the main streets until 11 p. m. trying to discount a twenty dollar bill and no shop or store would give me a cent on it. I got so frightened and sick I had to give up. In the early morning I met two English gentlemen about 60 years old. I told them our awful plight and they said for us to leave at once with them, and their wives and children. They went to the hotel with me and I signed a $20 traveler's check and told the hotel clerk he had to take that or nothing as we were leaving. Our bill was $13 in our money, and they gave me only five gulden back, taking just $5 too much and threatening to search me for jewelry. We stole out with our bags and jumped into a cab and met the English people at the station. One of the gentlemen had gone ahead. He brought me four $5 gold pieces for my $20 bill. We caught the train to "The Hook of Holland." We got a small boat supposed to carry 300 passengers, but that night it carried 1200. The Channel was so rough it seemed we would surely go down. It took us eight hours to cross. We had a little hot cabin in the steerage right alongside of millionaires, but we were so grateful for anything; no one even thought of sleeping. Twice during the night a man attempted to rob us. When we got almost to our port our boat was stopped by the awful Germans, but was allowed to dock.

We arrived here in London at 10 a. m. yesterday. We went twenty-one hours without food; were very dirty, having been put out of our first class coaches for drunken soldiers. Just as soon as we got in yesterday I went to our American Minister in London, Mr. Page. He told me I was only one of 20,000 stranded in London; that he had cabled President Wilson to send transports to take us home. I am truly sick at heart. I wanted to call you yesterday that I was safe, but they would not send it collect, so went to the Daily News office and registered and do hope you saw it. All the steamship lines are withdrawing their ships and that makes everything so uncertain. No one can get money on anything; letters of credit are of no value; American Express, bankers' checks, International and all are of no value today, but at the big American meeting I attended yesterday they said it would be only a few days until we get gold as the United States is sending $7,000,000 to us—grand old United States—if I ever see it again. Never again will I leave it.

August 5th—I received a telephone message from Mr. Lansefort, the agent of the White Star Line that I bought my ticket from, saying that the White Star Boats have all been withdrawn for war service, so we will have to wait for U. S. Army transports, but they say it will be almost impossible for women and children to travel on them as they have no cabins, just bunks. Do not write me, as I don't know any moment when we may leave here. The

IN THE HANDS OF THE PROGRESSIVES FOR ONE EVENING

Edgerton and Neylan Here In Johnson's Behalf

Railroad Commission Is Praised While San Francisco Chronicle and Los Angeles Times Are Lambasted to a Frazzle.

Upland was last night in the hands of the Progressives, and fully 300 people listened to the arguments as presented by men connected with the Johnson administration.

The evening's program opened at 7:30, the Upland band supplying music during the first half hour. A. J. Ware of the "House of Wares" presided as chairman of the meeting and first presented E. O. Edgerton, who is a member of the Railroad Commission. Mr. Edgerton dwelt on the work of the Commission to a considerable extent, giving in detail many things accomplished through this Commission, which is recognized by the majority of people as one of the best of the many Commissions now in existence in this State.

Hon. Max Thelan, the star of the Johnson campaigning party, did not appear in Upland, but Hon. J. F. Neylan was here and he didn't need any assistance, for he lambasted all opposition to Johnson thoroughly, the San Francisco Chronicle and the Los Angeles Times coming in for their share, as they do in all the meetings held through this section.

A meeting was held also in Ontario where both spoke, the Upland band filling in while the men changed locations.

IN THE SHADOW

Hannah Minerva Powell Palmer, born at Fredericksburg, Pa., Oct. 12, 1852, died August 16, 1914, being at the time of her death 62 years 10 months 4 days old.

Mrs. Palmer came to Iowa in early childhood, and at the age of twenty-four married Dr. William A. Palmer at Russell, Iowa, where she made her home until the death of Dr. Palmer in 1909. In 1907, with her family, she moved to Upland, Cal. Mrs. Palmer was the mother of four children, Lotta Grace who died in 1898 in the bloom of young womanhood, at Russell, Iowa, John Powell Palmer, Kate Palmer Stocking and Clarice Burt Palmer who reside at the home on Campus Avenue, Upland. She leaves three sisters and two brothers.

In early childhood she became identified with the M. E. Church and was a member at the time of her death.

Despite her failing health for the last few years of her life she maintained a happy, loving disposition which was characteristic of her life. A good mother, a kind and loving character has passed beyond. She has filled her mission in life. Lived to raise her children to manhood and womanhood and on the bright and beautiful Sunday afternoon she closed her eyes to earth to join the husband and daughter and receive the welcome "well done" in the Great Beyond.

Funeral services were conducted from Draper's parlors, Ontario, Wednesday, by the Rev. S. S. Sampson.

"Sonny Jim"—the child actor that is so immensely popular all over the civilized world, is to appear at the Lyric tomorrow (Friday) and Saturday nights in the comedy-drama, "Sonny Jim at the North Pole," in which he and his dog, "Shep," start out to find the North Pole and instead prevent a train wreck. It's a perfectly safe bet that there will be a lot of real entertainment turned loose when this wonderful child gets going.

W. C. T. U. PICNIC

The W. C. T. U. of Upland will hold their annual picnic at Ganesha Park Friday, August 21. This will be the regular monthly meeting. Business session in the forenoon. Lunch at noon. Program at 2 p. m. Everybody invited. Every one bring something to eat. Each one provide themselves with cup, knife, fork and spoon.—Mrs. E. P. Fuller, Sec.

Food is all being cut down and prices are going up. Tell all my friends; I can't even send them cards. I haven't money to buy stamps, but many millionaires are as poor as I am; men are almost crazy for a pipe of tobacco or a cigar and cannot get it. The streets are simply mobs this morning.

STREET DANCE IS A POSSIBILITY FOR COMING EVENT

Band Manager Requested To Initiate Novelty

Street Dance Which Has Proven Popular in Other Towns May Be Tried out in Upland. To Follow Concert Season.

The street dance is getting to be the popular thing in this section, and, strange as it may seem, San Bernardino city seems to have originated the idea. On the completion of a new pavement recently built there it was decided to celebrate and as a result the dancers gathered from every surrounding community and a delightful hop was enjoyed.

Last Saturday night Chino gave its first street dance and never in the history of the sugar beet town has there been as large a crowd present to enjoy a celebration of any sort.

Over at Redlands they have also been having street dances and the consensus of opinion in that city is that the dance is perfectly good fun and in which every one can indulge and have a highly entertaining time.

Upland's concert season is drawing to a close and Manager LeBaron has been asked why Upland should not have a series of street dances following the regular band concert season. Mr. LeBaron was unable to answer just why this city shouldn't have street dances and he states that he will talk the matter over with the members of the band and if the boys are favorable he will appear before the City Council and ask permission to hold street dances following the concert season and on the same evening that the concerts are now held. If the members of the band are favorable and the City Council grants the band permission to give these dances Manager LeBaron states that he believes the dance to be the best plan and with plenty of assistance from the local officers as well as additional deputies, the evening's fun can be made most enjoyable, not only for the dancers but for those who come to listen to the band and watch the dancers trip the light fantastic.

Of the Redlands dance the following item will prove of interest:

A free monthly street dance is one of the features of the city of Redlands' social life. The initial dance was given August 4 in one of the main streets of the town. There were no car tracks. Ropes were stretched and a municipal band of twenty-six pieces was stationed in front of the newly-completed First National Bank building. Cornmeal was scattered on the street, which converted the hard asphalt into a first class dance floor.

That the dance was a success was shown by the crowd which attended, most of whom proved to be dancers. The fun was begun at 8 o'clock and was stopped at 10 p. m., as that was the closing hour as decreed by the officials. Many prominent families of Redlands were represented, as well as some of the millionaires from the hill.

BURT & ADMIRE IS NAME OF NEW LAW FIRM HERE

A new law firm has been organized, for the general practice, in our city, Mr. A. W. Burt, the well known lawyer, and Mr. W. H. Admire, just from the State of Oklahoma.

Mr. Burt needs no introduction to our people. Mr. Admire, originally from the State of Indiana, moved to Texas, was admitted to practice law in the courts of the State of Texas in 1894, practiced there a number of years, afterwards moving to Oklahoma, was elected to the County Court bench which position he held for five years, and upon retiring from the bench moved to California.

This firm offers their professional services to the public, and any business entrusted to them will receive prompt and respectful attention.

Notary in office; all kinds of legal instruments drawn; personal injury claims, foreclosures and probate practice solicited.

Mr. Admire and family are located in Lordsburg, Okla., where she will remain permanently within a few weeks.

Mrs. C. J. Cornett left this week for Amarador, Okla., where she will remain until Christmas time.

VERILY, the scene changes. 'Twas many years ago that the people of Upland became afflicted with a disease, and as a result of said affliction there was erected in the midst of our fair city the Magnolia skating rink, long since deserted by erstwhile terpsichorean artists and left to decay. For the past few years the most useful service performed by said skating rink has been in behalf of bill posters and everything from "Union Leader," "Bull Durham," down to the candidates for office has been posted there. But the other day workmen were seen at work tearing off those many signs and within a few short hours painters were at work. Residents of the city remarked that Charles Rudy, the owner of the building, had employed an artist to adorn the front thus relieving what is termed by many an "eye-sore and menace to the city." Artists indeed were those men. For several hours did the mixing and spreading of colors go on until there finally evolved from the magic touch of those master paint throwers, "It Relieves Fatigue, Drink Coca-Cola." Let the scene change again and when, oh when?

CD. VAN WIE, West-End candidate for Supervisor, still leads in the race, and in spite of all opposition to invent arguments against him that would hold water, said arguments have been shot full of holes, and "Van," as he is familiarly known, will poll the big vote. Kincaid, the opposition candidate, evidently lined up in the wrong place, and the political meanderings of those who are handling his campaign with that of Riley, Supervisorial candidate from the Fourth district, had him on the defensive and he is no doubt wondering "what next?" Kincaid, as a member of the Grand Jury, signed the document which stated that the business of the Board of Supervisors was conducted along the right lines and that the office of purchasing agent would result in expense being materially reduced. But now that he is a candidate for office he states in his advertising, "You pay the taxes, who gets 'em?" This is used simply to create the impression that the County Board of Supervisors is extravagant in the conduct of the County business; but those who know Supervisor Jones, from this district, know that there is absolutely no foundation for the intimation, as Jones has a reputation here that inspires confidence in him as a Supervisor. When Supervisorial timber was wanted from this district The News was among the first to request Supervisor Jones to enter the contest. He refused to enter the race, much to the regret of his many friends. The West-End has ever had on the Board of Supervisors a man of ability, and this year it is more important than ever before that we place on the Board of Supervisors a man thoroughly familiar with County affairs. In C. D. Van Wie we have just such a man. He understands County business and has the stamina and business ability to ably represent this district, and by supporting him the West-End will add to her laurels of sending men to the Board of Supervisors who reflect credit upon their constituency.

THE city was flooded with copies of the Evening Index last Saturday night, intended to excite the populace of this fair city, but not much excitement has been stirred up, as people already are familiar with the ravings of the Index and its reputation for giving birth to false alarms. The San Bernardino Sun calls the Index the "Grouch," and alludes to its Sunday morning issue as follows:

"It certainly is true that whom the gods would destroy they first make mad. No other explanation could be applied to the amazing attack made in the 'Grouch' Sunday morning on W. F. G. Blaikie, of Ontario, expert for the last Grand Jury.

"Mr. Blaikie has been brought into the discussion by the fact that he called a halt on 'Jeff' Kincaid, who was a member of the Grand Jury which eight weeks ago filed a report absolutely approving the work of the County officers, and that of the Board of Supervisors in particular. Notwithstanding that he was a member of that Grand Jury, when Mr. Kincaid became a candidate for Supervisor, he put out a card soliciting support and asking voters 'why not attend to the County's business in a business way,' which brought the rejoinder from Mr. Blaikie to the effect that the County's business is attended to in a most businesslike way, and there is nothing left for the 'Grouch' by way of defense of Mr. Kincaid, but to seek to discredit Mr. Blaikie. Which that organ of discontent did Sunday morning in the following language:

"As before stated, Mr. Blaikie is a nice gentleman, fully in sympathy with the present County administration, glad to help any of the officials whenever possible, as his defense of Mr. Van Wie shows. In fact, had he not been in sympathy with Mr. Van Wie and other County officials, and had the approval of Messrs. Daley and Harbison, the county bosses, he would hardly have been given the job of going over the County books."

"Alas for the 'Grouch,' whose only idea of a political discussion is to use the names of people whom it does not like.

"Who do you suppose proposed the name of Mr. Blaikie for County expert? It was nobody else but Supervisor J. C. Jones, who said yesterday that he presented Mr. Blaikie's name without consultation with a single member of the Board or with anybody else, and he also presented Mr. Blaikie's name for the express reason that he has had no connection with politics or official work in the County. So you see what becomes of the 'Grouch's' suggestion that he was appointed to serve political ends.

"I proposed Mr. Blaikie as expert for the County and the Grand Jury," said Supervisor Jones yesterday, "and I did it without even mentioning it to a single member of the Board. None of them knew I was going to suggest him nor did they know him when I did suggest him. But I knew that he was an expert accountant of the highest standing. I knew that he was not in politics and perhaps was a stranger to most if not all of the officials. He therefore seemed to me to be an ideal man for the work, and a report from him would discover whether anything was wrong with our offices or business methods, while on the other hand, his approval ought to put an end to constant criticism. He spent more than two months on the work, and his report was a complete vindication for the business methods adopted by the County and for the work of officials."

"That statement coming from as much of an independent as Supervisor Jones will 'hold' some folks for a little while, at least. And for the newspaper defender of Mr. Kincaid's campaign to attempt to discredit the standing of Expert Blaikie is likely to cost Kincaid about the solid vote of Ontario. Not that there ever was any possibility of Ontario being solidly for Kincaid, but in the light of latest developments it is likely to be about 99 per cent solid against him. In view of the discussion, it will be interesting to recall just what Mr. Blaikie wrote, by way of reproving Kincaid. Said he:

"Having audited the County books for the year 1913 I know something about the way in which the County business is managed and I wish to put on record that it is my opinion that the business is conducted most admirably, and will compare favorably with any County in this country. It is impossible for an outsider to know whether the County affairs are properly done or not. I spent more than two months and checked every item of expenditure. Everything was in a most satisfactory condition. Had it been private business it could not have been done better."

"This to Mr. Kincaid, who eight weeks ago approved a Grand Jury report which said County business is well handled, and seven weeks later tried to win votes for himself by asking 'why not attend to the County's business in a business way?'"

THE POET RETURNS

The starlight lends me raiment;
(How slowly old songs die!)
A dream I gave in payment,
Of my dreams newborn and shy.

A moonbeam lends its burden;
(How slowly old songs fall!)
A dream I gave as guerdon;
For all my dreams are pale.

So through the dark I wander;
(How sweet the old songs seem!)
All undisturbed I ponder;
All palely still I dream.

Beneath the stately beaches
(How sweet the old songs were!)
I mouth my silver speeches
To make my own heart stir.

Beside the curious river
(How strange the old songs are!)
I glide to watch the shiver
On the water of a star.

Under the night's grave splendor
(How far the wise old songs!)
I murmur words as tender
As a lover's fancied wrongs.

The strange, strong songs I fashioned
(Those songs grown now so old!)
Seem vaguely fair and passioned,
Now my hot heart is cold.

The starlight lends me raiment;
My path a white moonbeam.
A song I give in payment,
For love I add a dream.

THE DRUM

This earth is as a mighty drum
Upon which beat the strokes of Fate,
While counter-marching go and come
The forces which decide our state.

Advance! and Science, Letters, Art,
Press forward gaining every field;
Their banners conquer every heart
And unknown foes before them yield.

Retreat! and dark barbaric hordes
Enwrap all learning in a pall,
And Progress sinks beneath their swords.

As Greece and Rome were fain
to fall,
Thus victory with each is cast,
The endless battle never won,
Until upon the Drum at last
Shall beat the Dirge and all be done.

—McLanburgh Wilson, in the New York Sun.

SNAKE BITE TEST OF DISCIPLE'S PIETY.

A faith in God that makes them capable of handling poisonous reptiles without fear of injury is one of the tenets of the "Snake Eaters," a religious organization which has been holding meetings in Dodge City, Kansas, says the New York Herald. The poisoning and death of members of the band as a result of handling the snakes, and persecutions by the authorities, have not broken up the organization, which now has a membership scattered over southwestern Kansas and Oklahoma.

The presence of the members of this cult was revealed by the calling of police to quell a disturbance that began as a result of "revelations" made by one of the speakers. The true Disciples of Christ is what the members call themselves.

The hair pulling that was staged was a result of the interpretation given by one of these speakers, Mrs. Mary Osteen, a widow, of Bloom, which reflected on the morality of Mrs. T. A. Covington. Mrs. Covington indignantly denied that she was guilty of a sinful spirit, as charged. The lie was passed and immediately the meeting was in an uproar. The hostess seized the speaker by the hair. Four other members, including Mrs. Covington's husband and a son-in-law, tried to unlock her fingers. Then somebody called the police.

"We believe that through faith we can handle snakes," said Mrs. Covington. "For in Luke He tells us that if we have faith we can raise up serpents and not be harmed." "It doesn't say that people won't be bitten by serpents, but if they are bitten it only shows that their faith is weak. If they die they are only laying down their lives to the Lord, and any of us are ready to do that."

That this belief of divine protection has been put to the test for years in southwestern Kansas and sometimes with fatal results was admitted. Fortunately for the mortality record, rattlesnakes are scarce in Kansas. Whenever a reptile is found it is passed from hand to hand among the members. Even if some of the disciples are bitten, it does not deter the others from testing the strength of their faith.

At a meeting in Stafford County a few years ago, when twenty-five disciples were holding a test meeting, three of them were bitten. All three of the bitten ones recovered, but the County authorities arrested the worshippers and took them to St. John. An attempt was made to take the minor children of the worshippers from them, but failed.

UNDERSEA BATTLE WITH A SHARK IN FILM.

Surprisingly clear were the motion pictures taken under water in the West Indies by the Williamson submarine expedition, shown privately yesterday at the American Museum of Natural History, under the auspices of that society. Sharks and drivers and submarine plants near the camera were as distinct as though taken in the sunlight. At a short distance from the camera the objects began to be shadowy and vague because of the water.

Part of one of the reels showed a diver in battle with a shark, which he killed. For the reason chiefly that the shark in its native haunts is unheeded of stage directions, this scene was perhaps not so sensational as might be supposed, although sufficiently unique and thrilling. Of course the combat is brief. Divers do not dally long with huge man-eating sharks even for a "movie" camera. In the shark pictures appeared an odd dozen of the sea—a sort of submarine strap hanger—called the sucker fish, which attaches itself by a suction fin to the shark, getting a free ride at high speed and then letting loose to enjoy crumbs from the shark's table.

If the sucker fish lingers too long at its meal and misses its train it perishes of hunger, as the legend goes. Some of the films are tinted, and they show interesting phases of deep sea plant life and coral formation, as well as life among the big and little fish. The divers shown were natives of the Bahama Islands. The pictures soon will be shown publicly in this city.—New York Herald.

PRESS ON WAR AND AMERICAN BUSINESS.

Philadelphia Press—This is our chance to get a firm hold in the South American trade which of right belongs to us, but has been allowed to go almost entirely to Europe. Baltimore Sun—Our business men adapt themselves to conditions very readily, as the events of the last two weeks abundantly indicate, and the worst of the war disturbance is clearly over. Pittsburgh Leader—Besides forcing home to us the lesson of the value of the merchant marine the European war ought to show us the way to depend more upon America and Americans and less upon Europe and Europeans.

Savannah News—We do not, of course, rejoice at the misfortune that has overtaken the peoples of Europe, but there is no reason why we shouldn't point out the benefits that promise to accrue to us from their misfortune.

New York Evening Post—We shall hardly be able to rely on European capital for our own affairs during some time to come, and for that reason it is most fortunate that we have for so many months been adjusting our plans to the absence of such capital.

Washington Post—There is no occasion for hysteria on account of the scantiness of the American merchant marine. It will flourish as it never flourished before, and very little legislation will be necessary.

New York Press—We want the ships and we must have the ships. If they can be bought, we ought to buy them. If private enterprise cannot or will not buy them, we should try to see whether public enterprise cannot buy them.

Philadelphia Enquirer—Without fear of contradiction, we say that the most important duty now before Congress is to pave the way for building up a merchant marine.

EDITORIAL FROM THE COMMERCIAL, NEW YORK CITY.

The doctors are after us again. Many of those attending the convention of the American Medical Association are committed to a campaign that has for its object the passage of laws by Congress and the various State Legislatures to compel every man, woman, and child in the country to submit to an official medical examination at least once a year. Granted that the services of a thoroughly capable and honest physician could be obtained, periodical examinations might be well enough for those who can afford them, but it is safe to say that most of the doctors who are advocating such a law are thinking more of the fees they would receive than of the good it would do. Even if the doctors were public employees whose services were free to the masses of the people, as far as making these examinations is concerned, they would still be exposed to the temptation of scaring those whom they examined into taking a course of treatment to be prescribed by the examiners or by other members of the medical profession who would split fees. At this very convention one of the most prominent surgeons in the country said that major abdominal operations are performed altogether too often in many cases by practitioners who do not know enough about surgery to be permitted to make an incision into the abdominal cavity. As long as we have doctors who are willing to play with the lives of patients for their personal profit or even for the purpose of adding to their own knowledge of anatomy, the public will be unwilling to give the medical profession any more authority than it at present possesses.

WALK SIX MILES FOR SEMI-COLON.

Some of the lights of literature in bygone days were great sticklers for perfection in printing. Victor Hugo confessed to a passion for punctuation. He made his printers furnish him with eleven revisions of the proofs of "La Legende des Siecles," the last ten of which required only in order that the commas might be put in the place. Thomas Campbell was equally fastidious. He once walked six miles to a printing office to have a comma changed into a semicolon.

WEST'S SPORTS RUN BY WEST. SLOGAN IN UPRISING.

Dissensions run riot in the ranks of the Western associations of the A. A. U. A civil war, which will rip the West asunder from the central governing body of the A. A. U., is imminent. Even now a well-formed, definite movement is on foot which threatens to result in the formation of a western organization independent of the national governing body. It is expected that all the large clubs, universities and colleges of the Pacific Coast will join in it. The leaders hope to swing the Western Associations of the A. A. U. away with it, says Howard W. Angus in the Los Angeles Tribune.

The West has come to the point where it demands the control of its own affairs without stifling interference. For some time the Pacific Coast has been fretting under the James E. Sullivan leash. Splits and rumors of splits have been prevalent for years. Now comes the action itself.

Nor is it the upshot of a frenzied moment. It has been slowly growing larger and gaining force, like a snowball when its gets rolling. But the two main factors that have brought the crisis is the action of the Eastern officials in the Panama-Pacific games and the alleged injustice done Drew in the East. These two have started the break which seems bent on spreading through the Western associations like fire through dead grass.

West Ready to Break

The University of California, U. S. C., the Multnomah Club of Portland, the Seattle Club, Washington University, Pomona College have verbally assured the L. A. A. C. officials that they are ready for the break. Letters have been written by the L. A. A. C. to the strong clubs of the West. Definite answers are expected this week. The showdown has been called for. That the Olympic Club is dissatisfied is known, but whether it will be willing to break now is another question. The Panama-Pacific games puts the club in a peculiar position. It is the home club, as it were. It can be expected to follow later.

James E. Sullivan precipitated the break when he informed Drew that he could not compete under the L. A. A. C. colors and ordered him not to run in the Canadian meet at Toronto. Howard Drew will run at Toronto under the L. A. A. C. colors. The Dominion organization will allow him to and will start a suit against the A. A. U. if he does not. That will start the trouble; James Sullivan will be forced to show his hand.

L. A. A. C. Willing to Join

"The Los Angeles Athletic Club stands ready to join a well-organized movement toward the formation of an organization in the West that will control our own amateur athletics," is what Frank A. Garbutt, president of the L. A. A. C., said. "The time has come," said Owen Bird of the L. A. A. C., "for the break. All the Western conditions are different from the East. Athletics cannot be run on the Pacific Coast from New York. We must regulate our own affairs. We believe that the way the Panama-Pacific Exposition has been handled is working a hardship on the officers of the P. A. A. I know that there are men in San Francisco sufficiently acquainted with athletic conditions on the Pacific Coast to easily handle a meet of that kind."

"San Francisco, Los Angeles or any Western sport center appreciates Eastern co-operation, but it is going a little too far when we practically have no say concerning meets held in our territory. It is very true that the Eastern A. A. U. officials consulted us about certain phases of the Panama-Pacific athletic program; but it is also very true that the arranged matters practically to suit themselves."

"This and the Drew case are only a few of many which illustrate the way we have been left out of things. The time has come to control our own affairs. If it cannot be done in the A. A. U., then we will do it without the A. A. U."

Warren Bovard gave me assurance that U. S. C. is ready. Ken Jones assured Owen Bird last week that a break was what Pomona was waiting for. Johnny Stroud on his trip south expressed exactly the same opinion. Washington is always been ready. The colleges are more than willing. The newly formed State prep union refused to recognize the A. A. U. The stage is set.

Locals Fight Against East

None of the southern clubs or colleges have anything but praise for the local branch of the A. A. U. Seward A. Simons has made it practically the only year the A. A. U. has been a potent force in southern Athletics. Seward A. Simons and his executive force has done much. He has battled for the West. Now he hopes to smooth over the difficulty and get the East to concede to the West the control of its own affairs. The fight is not against the Western A. A. U. It is against the East, which believes there is no athletics outside of New York.

But the others have come to the conclusion that nothing but a fight will secure them. Too many years have gone by without the East conceding anything, steadily refusing to yield the power. That is why it is only a matter of a month or two until the West will be loose from the East. Within a week the ground will be cleared for action. It is inevitable.

Easterners are apt to look upon this break and the formation of the new Western organization as an impossibility, as a sort of running into a stone wall affair. They will probably shudder and hold up their hands in horror before the investigate conditions.

The East has steadily refused to recognize the West. Slow have they been in giving the Pacific Coast its rights.

Pressure—strong pressure Drew has assured Bovard and Bird—has been brought to bear on Drew to force him to join the Irish-American Club. When Fred Thompson went to the all-round meet, those in charge insisted on him wearing Eastern colors. Fred Kelly's, champion high hurdler of the world, expenses to the Olympic games were paid by Los Angeles subscriptions. None of the money paid into the A. A. U. was used for that purpose. And Kelley in performance had proven himself the equal, if not the premier hurdler in the United States. Later, of course, he became the champion high hurdler of the world. Yet he was not given traveling expenses. The same thing prevails in all sports. The East refuses to recognize the West. The A. A. U. insists on regulating everything from the Atlantic seaboard for the Atlantic seaboard. That is why there seems to be no alternative for the imminent break.

Conditions Here Different

Conditions here are vastly different than in the East. Our seasons are different. Our amateur conditions different. The Eastern officials seem to understand the West about as well as England did the affairs in the colonies in 1775.

Ernest Inghold—who was president of the middleweight intercollegiate conference, which was forced to break from the A. A. U. some years ago because of adverse legislation—in a conference with Owen Bird last week expressed it as his opinion that action for individual rights and standards should have been taken five years ago. Although he is no longer actively engaged in athletics, he is confident that the West and Middle West will never gain equal recognition with the East until the break is made with the New York clique and assert their independence. The other methods have been tried so often and failed that the Western members are of the same opinion. The colleges have always been more or less at outs with the A. A. U. Small indeed has been its control of college athletics in the West. The Western associations alone have had any influence. And now the clubs are swining into line. They are the last straw.

Outcome Uncertain

Just what will be the outcome of the revolt is uncertain. It may result in an organization running in opposition to the A. A. U. in the West. It may mean that the Western associations will simply split with the central body and refuse to be dominated by it until all the demands are satisfied. It may result in a wholesale compromise. But the Westerners are not in the Henry Clay mood.

The definite action taken by the L. A. A. C. comes as near assuring a break as anything can. There are too many members of the Western associations of the A. A. U. joined with it, or willing to fall into line.

James E. Sullivan has been in charge so long that he has gotten dictatorial. One man cannot be at the head forever. History has taught that heads of governments should change. The new enthusiasm, the new man is needed. Perhaps there lies the root of all the trouble.

But the new movement in the West—the movement that rumbles like a civil war and spells a break like that of the W. A. A. in the automobile world, is coming. It is here. The L. A. A. C. attitude assures it. At best the demanding of control by the West has only been a matter of time. The only question that has been decided is the time to strike.

The ammunition has been stored, the guns primed, now for the firing and the battle.

Entertain Friends—

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Morris of Cucamonga entertained a small company of friends at a theatre party at the Lyric Tuesday evening of this week. After having enjoyed the performance the party proceeded to the Upland Pharmacy, where a delightful luncheon of ice cream and cake was served. Those enjoying the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Morris were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pierce Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Elva P. Fuller, Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Bodenhamer, Dr. and Mrs. Henry Preston Swain, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Henry McQuillen, and Miss McQuillen.

Merry Wives—

Mrs. Paul Cushing will entertain the Merry Wives Embroidery club on the lawn at the Crew home, "Aloha" on Friday afternoon of this week.

In Honor of Miss Carrie—

Mrs. Meisner entertained in honor of her daughter Carrie's birthday anniversary Tuesday evening. The Sunday School class and neighboring friends were invited and the evening was passed with games and a good time in general. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening's pleasure.

Entertained Prominent Official—

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Fuller entertained F. L. Annable at dinner Wednesday evening, he being the general superintendent of the Pacific Electric system. Messrs. Fuller and Annable were at one time associated together in the employ of the Salt Lake railroad, and enjoyed a delightful evening together. Mr. Annable appeared before the City Council to talk over matters pertaining to the operation of the electric trains through the city.

Entertains Embroidery Club—

Miss Florence Mehl entertained the B. B. Embroidery Club, under the willows at the home of her parents on East Ninth Street, Wednesday afternoon. Much enjoyment was derived from the fancy work and pleasant conversation. The hostess served appetizing refreshments to the following: Mrs. Percy Flagg, Mrs. C. E. Mehl, Mrs. Carl Nicholson, Mrs. Glenn Atwood, Mrs. Frownter, Mrs. Bernard Nichols, Mrs. Clifford Cochran, Miss Ruth Riley, Miss Anna Eymann, Miss Ruby Mehl, Miss Lucie Menze, Miss Iva Goodman, and Miss Mary Harman.

HOW TO VOTE

were disfranchised at the primary election.

Under the present law, the names of all candidates for County and township offices, in addition to those for all judicial and school offices will be printed on a separate non-partisan ballot which will be given to all voters at the primaries who have not registered their party affiliations. These same names will also be printed in separate columns on each of the party ballots.

Polls Will Be Open Thirteen Hours

The polls will be open from 6 a. m. to 7 p. m. Voters who are at the polls and in line waiting their turn at 7 p. m. will be entitled to cast their votes.

How to Vote

Get your voting number from the printed voting list, which will be posted outside the polling place, give your number to the clerks and sign the roster of voters, being careful to write your name and address just as you did when you registered. Take the ballot, which will be handed you, into one of the booths and mark it by placing a cross opposite the name of each candidate for whom you wish to vote. Then fold it so that the names are concealed and the number on the back can be torn off, and hand it to the officer at the ballot box, giving him your name.

Writing in Names

If you desire to vote for any candidate whose name is not on the ballot, you can do so by writing in his name in the blank space which appears under the designation of that office upon the ballot.

Use the Rubber Stamp

Be sure to use the rubber stamp found in the booth for the purpose of making the crosses. Do not make any mark upon the ballot with pen or pencil, except in writing in names, or you will invalidate your ballot.

Spoiled Ballots

If, by mistake, you make a mark on the ballot where you did not intend to, fold it and return it to the ballot clerk, and receive from him a fresh ballot.

How Many to Vote for

Vote for as many candidates for each office as there are places to be filled, and no more. This number, you will find indicated on the ballot, following the designation of each office, by the words: "Vote for one," or "Vote for two" (or more, as the case may be.)

For example: there are ten judges of the Superior Court to be elected, and you may vote for ten, or any less number, but if you vote for more, your vote will not be counted at all for this office.

Mark Your Sample Ballot

I feel that the best advice I can give the voters is the following: Before going to the polls, take the sample ballot you will receive through the mails and, taking plenty of time, mark it carefully the way you intend to vote. Then take it to the polls with you and mark your official ballot to correspond with it. This will serve two good purposes. It will avoid waste of time at the polling places, which is an important factor, and it will decrease the danger of mistakes in marking your ballot.

Don't Fail to Vote

It is to the interest of the State that each election held should register the will of all the electors—not merely a small portion of them. If you are not personally interested in any candidate, that is all the more reason why you should not neglect to vote. Your vote in that case will be most apt to be an impartial one, because it will be disinterested. The welfare of the community will be best promoted by the votes of the disinterested electors, whose only interest in the result is the advancement of that welfare.

Officers, and institutions in accordance with the directions given by you. Without going into detail, we would say in a general way that we found these books and accounts carefully kept and in good condition. The following officers were found in excellent condition and we commend the several officers for their faithful attention to the public business: County Clerk, Superintendent of Schools, District Attorney, Probation Officer, Coroner, Treasurer, Assessor, Auditor, Recorder and Public Administrator.

State of California, County of San Bernardino, ss:

I, Charles Post, County Clerk, and ex-officio Clerk of the Superior Court of said County, do hereby certify the foregoing to be a full, true and correct copy of portions of the Grand Jury report of 1912-13-14 referring to the Auditor's office on file in my office and that I have carefully compared said copy with the original. In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and affixed my official seal this 19th day of August, 1914.

CHARLES POST,
County Clerk.

Brown and Ruggles are Southern California distributors for Car-Nation, the classy car that is making every one stop and look—and look again. They were taking a little spin from Los Angeles to Redlands and return. Mr. Ruggles has just returned from the Car-Nation factory in Detroit and was anxious for a ramble which would take them over the ruts and through the sand. Most any car will take the boulevards to satisfaction, but when it comes to hills, rough roads and desert sands—that's different. Brown and Ruggles were wild with enthusiasm when they reached Ontario on the return over the way the Car-Nation plowed through the sand, skinned the ruts and mounted the hills.

SAYS MANY EVADE DUTY ON DIAMONDS.

Diamonds and other precious stones worth $3,500,000 are smuggled into this country every month, defrauding the government of $700,000 duty, according to J. Warner Hutchins, one-time president of the National Jewelers' Association, says the Philadelphia Ledger. Since the enforcement of the high tariff on importations of luxuries, says Mr. Hutchins, an organized band of jewel experts has successfully operated a gigantic smuggling scheme, bringing into the United States from foreign diamond markets quantities of unset stones. The Canadian border is believed to be the hotbed of their activities. The smuggling operations have reached a point where they are said to threaten the business of every honest dealer.

Explaining the methods used by the smugglers, he said they operated through foreign agents, who were the actual purchasers of the jewels. These agents are not under surveillance of the police in the European markets, and can readily negotiate with the world's largest diamond cutters without exciting suspicion. The stones are then delivered to the smuggler, who takes them into Canada duty free. There he arranges to enter this country and operates according to his individual system. Some of them swallow the stones, others secrete them in their clothing. Any scheme is used that offers the slightest possibility of evading the custom's inspectors.

Having finally reached American soil with his valuable merchandise, the smuggler keeps under cover for a time, then reaches out among dishonest jobbers who know of devious ways to place the goods in the shops of unscrupulous retail dealers. There the smuggled jewels are offered for sale at prices often forty to fifty per cent below the legitimate figures.

Mr. Hutchins, in pointing out the effect the smuggling operations have had on the business of the honest dealer, said that buyers who visit the different shops comparing prices find a wide diversity of quotations on diamonds of similar weight. The purchase is eventually made where the price is lowest, thereby injuring the merchant who observes the ethics of the trade and deals only in duty paid importations.

FREAKS OF GRATITUDE

At a subway station recently a woman lost a $500 diamond ring which was duly restored to her upon the advertised promise to pay the finder a reward of $200. When the ring was taken to the owner by the finder she found that she had promised more than she could fulfill with cash. So she had to pawn the ring to make good.

This is not by any means a solitary case of odd recompensing incidents. A few months ago a Philadelphia woman lost a pet dog. She advertised for two weeks daily, offering a sum out of all proportion to the worth of the animal according to current dog rates.

Her pet was brought to her door one morning and the reward claimed before delivery. She was unable to pay, and was in tears when the finder refused to accept her promise to pay later, as reason enough for leaving the dog.

A satisfactory compromise was reached at last. She signed a paper relinquishing all rights to the dog for a period of six months. The animal's temporary owner entered him in every dog show within a radius of a thousand miles, and was reported to have made a tidy sum in prizes.

The daughter of a western railroad president was boating on Lake Michigan last season, when, in exchanging seats there was an upset, and she was in peril for a time. A young fellow jumped from a nearby launch and rescued her. Her father effusively thanked the rescuer, and asked him how much cash he might have the privilege of bestowing upon such a brave man.

The young fellow indignantly refused to consider the value of his service in dollars and cents. When pressed to name some other reward he finally made it known that he'd signed for a pass on the president's railroad all his young life. He would take an annual pass, but that was all. When the president explained that it was not lawful to issue him one, he just said: "All right, good-by," and started off. But the president induced him to come back, and found a way out of the difficulty by giving him a job on the railroad in order that he might lawfully use a pass.—New York Sun.

A SCIENTIFIC NOTE

To elucidate a difficult subject we have pleasure in saying that the devastating worm which is operating in several Eastern States is the Leucania unipuncta, and that he has an ichneumon parasite known as Ophion purgatorius. These matters are always simple enough when they are stated with scientific precision.—Boston Traveler.

"Is Jiggs much of a golfer?"
"His form is very poor, but his arithmetic is excellent."—Buffalo Express.

SAYS WAR BRINGS WALL PAPER ORISIS.

Are you going to have the whole apartment done over this September? You are not, unless, most probably, you pay for it yourself. The European war has done things to wall paper which the agent for the apartment house will know all about long before you, says the New York Herald. Still it will be well to wipe away his tears when he breaks down at your proposal that the landlord shall put new paper on all the rooms before you renew the lease. All is not lost.

"The Germans, the greatest chemists in the world, have developed the aniline dye colors used in wall paper making, and Germany is practically the only source of supply. Germany is not going to supply any to the United States for quite a while. They cannot be had elsewhere in adequate quantities now."

This interesting presentation of the situation was made yesterday by George Tait, of Glens Falls, N. Y. He is president of the Imperial (Glens Falls) and the William Campbell (Hackensack, N. J.) Wall Paper Companies, and one of the delegates to the informal State Republican convention of August 18. His concerns occupy several rooms in the Imperial Hotel, which, with the Breslin, shares popularity as headquarters for the wall paper manufacturers exhibition now in progress here.

"We cannot get the aniline dye necessary for wall paper making as it is made to-day from any place but Germany in anything like the quantities the trade demands," said Mr. Tait. "That situation is plainly reflected in this exhibition. Those wall paper manufacturers who have laid in large supplies of colors and other material can guarantee deliveries. They are getting the orders on that basis with little regard to other elements."

"Many of us are well protected for months to come, and we are wondering what effect this European war is going to have on the fashions in clothing for American women. We all know that anything which stirs the people to a state of high excitement stirs women's clothes to a fashion of high colors. American women never wore such gaudy stuffs as came into vogue with the Spanish-American war. Then bright colors faded until the heroic struggles of the Bulgarians excited the responsive admiration of the world, especially the women. Then we had the bright colors.

"As soon as colors appear in women's attire they shoot into wall paper designs. The clear tone effects, absence of broad or high lights in patterns which have characterized women's dress in many recent months are strongly reflected in the wall patterns most popular with buyers in this very exhibition. There is a canvas effect made by all of us which is winning over all the stripes and figures.

"Take my word for it—and it means dollars and cents to me to be right—the winner in the European war is going to dress the women of America next spring with his victor's colors and spatter the walls of a million American flats a year from this September."

SAN DIEGO TO BE A TRADING CENTER.

That cotton gins, mills and a great industry erected on the product of Imperial Valley will make San Diego one of the greatest trading centers in the country is the prediction made by John D. Reaves, vice president of the California Land and Water Company. Mr. Reaves was in San Diego recently with the Cotton Pickers Association, of Los Angeles, which has been touring the valley.

Brimming over with enthusiasm, the men arrived on chartered stages from the valley. Each man had gone into the fields and picked cotton. Each one wore a fleecy bouquet in his buttonhole.

The Los Angeles men completed in San Diego what they term the Golden Triangle, which consists of Los Angeles, San Diego and El Centro. They visited at Holtville, Imperial, Brawley, Seeley and other points in the valley.

It is claimed that the excursion just ended was the first ever sent into Imperial Valley during August. A banquet was held at the Palace cafe, at which time Colonel D. C. Collier told the members of the association of his Southwestern Pacific Railroad project and Secretary Penford, of the Panama-California Exposition, told them what San Diego hopes to accomplish next year.
